The total gain over last year was $767,885, a surprising and gratifying increase. Of this, it will be noticed that almost $120,000 comes from increase in manufacturers stock and over $300,000 from the taxable property of banks, railroads and incorporated companies. The amount of money returned also shows a gain of $400,000 while credits have been reduced by over $150,000

Everything goes to show that better industrial conditions exist and that Washington county is getting her the country at large.

Adding to the gain of $767,885 in perlars worth of property will be placed on the duplicate this year, more than Bradford's Enormous Yield.

In a highly commendatory article on the Derrick Hand Book of Petrolcom, the New York Commercial makes ing of the trustees of the seminary was a curious mistake in quoting the total production of the Bradford field. The Commercial states that the Hand Book's estimate of the Bradford outstanding waiting for him. He was in- put since its inception, is 100,000,000 barrels. The actual figures are a great deal nearer 200,000,000 barrels. Inasmuch as the article has been freely copied in several other papers, it may be well to call atention to this error a it tends somewhat to the discredit of the most wonderful oil field eve known in this country.

The total amount of oil produced in the Bradford field, without making any estimate for waste, oil burned as fuel, etc., but represented by pipe line runs alone, from 1875 down to the close of 1899, was 191,467,672 barrels. When it is considered that the total yield of Pennsylvania oll, from the entire producing regions of New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Southeastern Ohio from the days of Colonel Drake down to the present time amounts to 705,000,000 barrels,the OVERCOMES importance of the Bradford field as a producing factor, is better recognized. In other words, the great Northern oil basin in the twenty-five years of its highest productive existence, has yielded up over 25 per cent of all the oil (classed as exclusively Pennsylvania product) thathas been produced in the eastern oil region during the entire forty years that have elapsed since the first ral oil well was completed in the Oil Creek valley, in 1859.

The immense amount of over 190,-000,000 barrels, has come from drilling 21,126 wells, of which number less than ten per cent were dry. The average yield for each productive well drilled in the Bradford field is nearly cat fulfillment of the estimate made by Mr. John F. Carll twenty years ago, who, after experiments with the producing possibilities of the Bradford sand rock, gave it as his opinion that the field would yield 2,000 barrels to the acre. At one well to every five acres of ground, it will be seen that this estimate has been verified almost precisely to a barrel. What, however is close to the point, is the fact that the Bradford field is still producing oll, and is expected to do so for a great many years to come. Its output for guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ezra the present year will fall below 3,000, 000 barrels, but this is greater than the yield of the entire State of California for the year 1899.

It is not at all unreasonable to expect that the Bradford field will produce upwards of 200,000,000 barrels of oil before her career as an oil district will be anywhere near finished. As pointed out in the Derrick Hand Book. the total production of the Bradford oil field would fill a reservoir ten miles long, one mile wide and forty feet deep. To contain this amount of oil would require 5,478 iron tanks of a apacity of 35,000 barrels each.

When it is considered that the cos of all the wells drilled in the Bradford prior to undergo a surgical operation. the producers have realized at least $200,000,000 from the oil produced, gard to the country being worse off than it was before oil was discovered will find few supporters in McKean county. The Northern off fields furnish a most striking refutation of the to indulge in.

er 33,000,000 barrels of oil from 7,259 a few days gefore going to their home wells, which is an average to date of in North Hampton, Mass. over 5,000 barrels for each productive well. The aggregate production of Bradford and Allegany has been neafly 225,000,000 barrels. Nearly onecrowd. Many who were present say third of the total yield of the Pennsylvania oil regions has come from the great black sand fields of the Northbride's parents accurred the marriage east. The total area of productive territory in these two districts covers less Homer Cunningham, both well known than 150,000 acres, and could all be contained in a district less than six-

Gen. Wheeler's Retirement.

In anyone had predicted a generation ago, that the dashing and dreaded confederate cavalry leader "Fighting Joe" Wheeler, would live to be a brigof the happy couple. The bride and adier general in the regular United States army and to command a deip to Virginia, where they will spend partment, with headquarters at Chieago, the prophet would have had a short shrift. General Wheeler himself would probably have been the last John Robinson's Show Passes man to credit any such prediction. The fact that these things have actually taken place is the most tangible proof of the unifying effect of the Spanish Dynamiting Fish in Kanawha war. That war has worked many wonderful and surprising changes in the nation's affairs, but none more gratifying than the wiping out of traand south. With one of the most decan no longer be any question that the dead past has buried its dead issues.
